

His Bingo Bill Would 'Protect Little Old Ladies'

LANSING (AP)—Rep. J. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, is introducing legislation today to keep church groups, charitable organizations and little old ladies from violating the State Constitution. He proposes to change the Constitution. Traxler, majority floor leader, is sponsoring a joint resolution to eliminate the prohibition against bingo—"for many elderly, their only form of inexpensive recreation." The State Constitution now prohibits the Legislature from authorizing any form of lottery or permitting the sale of lottery tickets.

Traxler's resolution would add the following language to that section of the Constitution: "It may provide for law to authorize bingo games sponsored by nonprofit church-related organizations or veterans' organizations." In many communities, Traxler said, authorities close their eyes to bingo games run by charitable, non-profit organizations—provided the wagers and prizes are kept low.

The organizations that profit from these games and the older people who have fun playing them, however, are under constant threat of police crackdown, he said, adding: "Church related bingo is a worthwhile recreational game. You can't spend a sufficient amount of money to endanger the welfare of the children at home or lose your life savings. At the most, a person could lose a couple of dollars in an evening. "I am sure the Legislature would limit the cost of the cards and the size of the prizes," he said. The resolution needs a two-thirds vote in each house before it can be submitted for approval to the people in the November general election.

GEMINI 9 FLIGHT CANCELED

Negroes Win In Alabama

Primary Runoff Unseats White Sheriff

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The first Negro nominated for sheriff in Alabama since Reconstruction days held out a jubilant promise today of fair and efficient law enforcement.

Despite a split in the ranks of Negro voters, Lucius A. Amerson won the Democratic nomination in Macon County Tuesday in a runoff primary in which three other Negro candidates triumphed over white opponents.

In the remaining 22 white vs. Negro contests which highlighted an otherwise uneventful statewide party election, the Negro candidates went down to defeat, including one of the state's best known civil rights attorneys, Fred D. Gray. Significantly, none of the eight Negroes who sought seats in the legislature was successful. Thus until there is a vacancy or until a new legislature is chosen in 1970, the state's lawmaking assembly will be composed of 141 white members.

Amerson, 32, a former postal employee who gave up his job to campaign for sheriff, faces possible Republican opposition in the November general election. But there appears to be little likelihood that another candidate would succeed where the incumbent sheriff, Harvey Sadler, failed.

Negroes, who until five years ago had difficulty registering in Macon County, now have a 2-1 voting majority. A split developed within their ranks when a Negro city councilman, the Rev. K. L. Buford, supported Sadler but enough of them stuck together to give the chunky, neatly dressed Amerson the victory.

It also was the decisive margin which nominated funeral home owner L. A. Locklair for tax collector and Harold Webb, 67, a retired teacher, for a seat on the county governing body, the Board of Revenue.

The other successful candidate was the Rev. Peter Kirksey, 60, a civil rights leader in Greene County who ran for a place on the county school board.

The breakthrough in the sheriff's race held out to the Negro nominee the prospect of authority never before entrusted to one of his race by Alabama voters. The sheriff is the chief law enforcement officer of the county.

Macon County however already had four Negro officials, elected two years ago, and Tuskegee has two Negroes on its City Council. In Greene County, it was the

'KILLERS' TO GO Says Road Signs Are Too Sturdy

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's highway director says present state highway signs "are just as deadly as trees" to motorists who hit them, and collapsible signs soon will replace them.

Director Howard E. Hill said Tuesday present signs are held in place with steel made to withstand winds of up to 100 miles an hour.

They will be replaced with signs with less wind resistance, he said. Approval of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is anticipated.

Hill also said many traffic signs are within 20 feet of the roadway, the same area in which the department has been removing "killer" trees.

The problem, he said, is to place signs close enough to be picked up in an auto's headlights at night.

KALAMAZOO (AP)—The resignation of Daniel Garber as Kalamazoo County assistant prosecutor was disclosed Tuesday in a letter to the county controller. Garber has left the post to pursue private business interests in Las Vegas, Nev.

New Bill To Benefit Counties

House Passes Levy On Land Transfers

LANSING (AP)—Michigan counties now have a $4 million stake in the length and cost of the conflict in Viet Nam.

The House agreed to Senate amendments to a state "stamp act" and sent it to Gov. George Romney, who has indicated he would sign it, said sponsor George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit.

The bill would impose a real estate transfer tax of 55 cents per $500 at the sale price in each transaction — if the identical federal tax is repealed on schedule, Jan. 1, 1968.

"If Congress rescinds its action of last year in repealing the tax or postpones the effective date because of the cost of the war," Montgomery said, "the state tax would automatically be postponed."

LIB PLAN
The tax was one of several President Johnson urged Congress to rescind or reduce last year. He since has urged re-imposition of two of them — on automobiles and telephone services — as costs of the conflict in Viet Nam and poverty programs increased.

The bill, once part of a fiscal reform package, originally would have given the state half the revenues — or $2 million a year.

The Senate amended the bill to allow the funds to remain in the county in which they were collected.

EARLY FOR 4TH Police Seize Fireworks In Buchanan

BUCHANAN — City police are holding a quantity of fireworks seized from a car parked in the Clark Equipment Co. lot last night.

A plant guard saw the cache and reported to police who said they removed 1,400 pieces of fireworks from the auto. Police said they contacted John Iwanuk, assistant Buchanan county prosecutor, for a ruling on whether they could go onto private property to seize fireworks, banned by Michigan law.

Officers also are checking to determine if city ordinances prohibit possession of fireworks.

Humphrey Raps Rich Negroes

'Ignoring' Poor Members Of Their Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey launched the already controversial White House Conference on Civil Rights today by sharply criticizing upper-class Negroes who ignore the plight of their less fortunate fellow Negroes.

Keynoting the conference "to fulfill these rights," Humphrey said in a prepared address there are "Negro Americans who appear more concerned about their own positions than about the plight of those less fortunate, less articulate members of their race."

"Their interest is not in securing the fruits of equality for their brothers, but in preserving their own personal good fortune and accomplishments," the vice president said.

CONFERENCE OPENS
The extraordinary two-day conference of some 2,400 influential citizens opened under a cloud of charges that the administration has rigged its outcome.

The conferees were to discuss a 100-page document prepared by the conference planning council that proposes a multi-billion-dollar program of action to bring the Negro into full equality in housing, jobs, education and the administration of justice.

There was no plan for the conferees to vote on any of the recommendations — and this became a point of contention even before the conference got under way.

Floyd B. McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, charged that the conference had been rigged and promised an opening-day attempt to change the rules so that delegates could act formally on the recommendations and vote on resolutions.

Washington atty. Joseph L. Rauh Jr., a prominent civil rights spokesman, warned that failure to allow voting could result in "embarrassing disruption" of the conference — perhaps at its closing dinner meeting, when President Johnson may speak.

COMPROMISE
But when the conference opened, Heinenman presented a compromise that went over without a ripple from the audience gathered to hear Humphrey's address.

Heinenman said the council, in a late meeting Tuesday night, had decided to let the conferees propose and vote on resolutions in the last session Thursday of the 12 committees into which the 2,400 conferees have been divided.

The resolutions may be totally unrelated to the council recommendations, Heinenman said, and all will be contained in the conference report to the President.

In his speech, Humphrey spoke out, too, against "Americans, some of them on human relations commissions, who appear more concerned about preserving the status quo than rooting out long-standing injustices facing residents of their community."

To both groups, Humphrey said, "the lesson of the revolution of rising expectations must be written large: 20 million Americans will no longer be pacified by slogans or tokens. The news that a Negro has just been appointed general counsel of a major corporation brings little hope into the life of a man who failed to complete fifth grade in a second-rate school."

MICHIGAN BELL

Plan Drive To Halt Obscene Phone Calls

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan Bell Telephone Co., concerned with an increase in the number of obscene and harassing calls, has launched a campaign to protect customers against such calls.

President William M. Day said Michigan Bell is using new equipment and is developing new techniques to identify the calling number of anyone making obscene, harassing or crank calls.

Among the new devices is one which can "lock in" on a call, he said. In some cases, it can lead to identification of the calling telephone line even after the person who made the call has hung up.

The company also has set up new procedures for the handling of complaints of such calls at each of its business offices in Michigan with specially trained personnel assigned to handle the complaints.

In most instances, Day said, the customer can solve the problem by not talking, or by hanging up. If the calls persist, he urged customers to call their telephone company business office.

Michigan law provides up to 90 days in jail and $100 fines for making obscene or harassing calls. In addition, the telephone company is permitted to disconnect the service to anyone proved to be making such calls.

Clark Will Roll On Tractor Order

Last Part Of $32 Million Army Contract

Clark Equipment company has received authorization for the final $5.2 million segment of a new $32,271,000 contract to build 689 of their 290-M model military wheeled tractors for the U.S. Army.

The new contract follows a current order from the Army for 885 of the 290-M tractors from Clark, which are now in production. The additional 689 units are scheduled for delivery between October 1966 and June 1967.

The tractors are being manufactured at the Clark Equipment Co. construction machinery division near Benton Harbor.

The new contract was divided into three segments. In mid-April the army authorized Clark to commit itself up to $17 million on the contract, and May 15 an additional $10 million was authorized. The final authorization was for slightly more than $5,200,000.

The tractors are manufactured only for the Army, Clark officials said, and are not produced for commercial use.

Computer Balks In Spacecraft

Will Try Again On Friday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Gemini 9 mission was canceled today because of last-minute problems with the spacecraft.

The flight was rescheduled for 8:39 a.m. EST Friday. If the Gemini spacecraft cannot be launched early in the morning Friday, technicians will try again at 10:15 a.m. EST.

The trouble with the Gemini was a computer in the spacecraft which would not accept commands.

Today's flight would have been the most difficult and daring space adventure yet attempted by man. If Friday's attempt proves successful, it will put U.S. astronauts a big stride closer to the moon.

The action-packed schedule called for a chase and link-up with a target satellite, a 24-hour walk in space, and a practice space rescue mission. Success in these maneuvers would put the United States substantially ahead of the Soviet Union in solving some of the most difficult problems of space flight.

Here are the planned day-by-day highlights of the Gemini 9 flight of astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan:

Friday: Chase and link up with a target satellite, maneuvering in much the way later astronauts will do in returning from the moon.

Saturday: Cernan takes 2½-hour space walk, maneuvering part of the time on a 150-foot tether with a rocket-powered backpack. Astronauts practice a rendezvous without the use of radar and dock and undock several times.

Sunday: Practice rendezvous and docking technique that might have to be conducted to rescue two astronauts who have started down to moon and for some reason decide not to land. Experiments.

Monday: Return to earth after orbital flight of 70 hours 40 minutes, landing in Atlantic 420 miles east of Cape Kennedy.

Stafford, balding 35-year-old Air Force lieutenant colonel, and Cernan, slender 28-year-old Navy lieutenant commander, went to bed early Tuesday night to rest for their demanding assignment. They first worked out in a gymnasium near their quarters six miles from the launch pad.

They had gone through the prelaunch procedure once before, on May 17. Their flight was postponed then when an electrical short fouled one of the Atlas engines and sent the rocket and Agena target satellite plummeting into the Atlantic Ocean 180 miles southeast of

Raising The Ceiling

Congress again is occupied with the annual chore of raising the temporary limit on the national debt. This is a task that cannot be avoided because on July 1 the ceiling will drop automatically to the permanent limit of $285 billion and national indebtedness subject to the limit now totals $320 billion.

There's no doubt Congress will raise the temporary ceiling in order to give the Treasury sufficient headroom for managing the debt. How high to raise it is a matter of opinion.

The administration asked a $4 billion increase from $328 billion to $332 billion based on the Treasury's forecast of a $3.9 billion deficit for the current fiscal year that ends June 30. The staff of the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue believes the deficit will be only $2.5 billion because of additional revenue from the booming economy.

The House Ways and Means Committee, acting on the lower figure, has cut the White House requests in half and voted a $330 billion ceiling. The committee's recommendation now goes to the House and then to the Senate and in the end the administration will find Congress accommodating.

Congress could avoid these annual roof raising exercises by a more realistic approach to the problems of the national debt, but it would probably be the height of optimism to expect it to take steps to start reducing it.

NATO Grows Livelier

For an organization whose death was so loudly announced by many experts, NATO seems livelier and livelier.

June 6 is a key date for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. That is when 14 NATO foreign ministers will meet in Brussels to decide on steps to be taken to counteract the partial withdrawal of France from the European defense group.

With the date near, the three remaining pillars of NATO, the United States, Britain and West Germany, are agreed in their views on NATO. This virtually assures that constructive steps will be taken in Belgium to keep the defense organization a vital force in Europe.

Among the views of the three leading nations are these: to stand fast on the principle of a united NATO command while avoiding unnecessary conflict with France; to reformulate NATO's political aims, and to work to modernize NATO's structure.

If NATO's aims and structures can be brought up to date as a result of the crisis brought on by France, perhaps De Gaulle's animosity will have proven valuable. The organization has been ailing for years, perhaps because it had not changed its military strategy to meet the changing needs of Europe.

In that connection, some critics have raised an interesting point about U.S. troop commitments to Europe. They call for America to pull back many of the troops it now has in Europe, with related personnel now number 700,000.

As these critics say, this is a considerable drain upon U.S. gold supplies. They question whether such a massive troop commitment is as necessary now as 15 years ago, when West European allies were much poorer and much less able to supply their own defense forces.

This certainly is a point that should be considered as NATO leaders set to work to modernize the organization.

Patients and Profit

Rare is the doctor who doesn't wish he didn't have to see another drug salesman, or cram more samples into his desk, or pile another batch of informational literature onto an overcrowded shelf.

He knows he will, for it's all part of keeping up with his profession. How big a part may be gathered from official estimates that drug companies spend three quarters of a billion dollars a year, or $3,000 per doctor, in acquainting the medical profession with their products.

Dr. James L. Goddard, federal commissioner of food and drugs, is concerned about the amount spent on promotional material and its effect on the high cost of prescription drugs. What concerns Dr. Goddard even more is the fact that patient care depends to a large extent "on the quality and power of the advertising message that gets through" to the physician.

That is, the doctor's task is complicated not only by the volume of promotional material he must read but also by the difficulty of dividing fact from unsubstantiated claims. In Dr. Goddard's judgment, one-third of the nation's drug manufacturers continue to violate federal regulations against false and misleading advertising.

Obviously one remedy lies in stricter enforcement. Toward this end, Dr. Goddard has acquired trained investigators from the Public Health Service to evaluate new drugs against the claims made for them. He also may require firms guilty of infractions to clear future promotional material with the Food and Drug Administration.

Troubled Guyana

Few countries have entered the family of nations with more handicaps than the Western Hemisphere's newest independent state, Guyana. The former British Guiana is undeveloped, lacking in skilled personnel, plagued with racial strife and, most difficult of all, its government is under constant harassment from Marxist Cheddi Jagan.

Prime Minister Forbes Burnham's plans for his country are based on the hope of political stability. He is seeking a World Bank loan of $170 million which would finance projects designed to slash the 16 per cent unemployment rate. He also knows that help must come from private foreign capital to tap a land rich in metals.

These plans will be meaningless if Jagan is not kept in check. The leader of the country's 220,000 East Indians is an unabashed admirer of Fidel Castro. He wants to turn Guyana into another Cuba and he promises to "use any means" to win the next vote.

If the prime minister's program falters, a Jagan victory, at the polls or otherwise, would not be unlikely. In the last balloting, Burnham's People's National Congress party won 40.5 per cent of the vote. The Jagan ticket got 45.8 per cent and the Burnham government was formed only with the support of the Conservative United Force, which polled 12.4 per cent.

Fortunately for Burnham, a British military force will remain in Guyana to prevent a recurrence of the violence between Negroes and East Indians which took 137 lives in 1964. Today, with its sister republics in the hemisphere watching carefully, Guyana is on its own.

It has made its choice for freedom. What it does for freedom will depend on its own exertions, on outsiders and, above all, on Jagan.

Definition

That five-man board of arbitration named by Vice President Hubert Humphrey to resolve the five-year power struggle between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association was going along pretty well until it tried to define what constitutes a college athlete.

It just cannot seem to come up with a definition and it is difficult to understand why. Everybody knows the college athlete is the guy with a scholarship.

Inside Washington

By HENRY CATHCART

WASHINGTON — The White House apparently has abandoned a policy of many years standing and no longer is making public exchanges of letters between departing government officials and President Johnson. Some people in Washington are humorously referring to the change as the "letter gap."

For many years, presidents have been in the habit of replying to letters of resignation from agency heads and sub-heads who were presidential appointees. Regardless of the actual reason for leaving, these letters usually gave "health" or "personal" considerations as the reason for returning to private life. And they invariably were answered by presidents in tones of regret at the departure and expressions of appreciation for the services rendered.

Officially, the White House says there is no new policy on releasing or not releasing this type of correspondence, but there has been a notable absence of them in recent months, despite a series of high-level departures.

Jack Valenti said he wrote the President when he resigned from the White House staff to head the Motion Picture Association of America, but requested that neither his letter nor a presidential reply be made public.

Despite Johnson's deep reverence for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, there was no public exchange of correspondence when Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. resigned from the Equal Employment Opportunity commission to enter the race for the New York governorship. In the latter instance, a presidential letter undoubtedly Saint Subber is a youngish producer with two smash hits on Broadway at the same time: "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Odd Couple." Between trips to the bank to deposit his loot, Subber took time out to recall a less-prosperous period — not so long ago, either — when he made his one and only appearance as an actor. "It truly was an uplifting experience," he insists. "I was required to be on stage when the curtain rose for Act One of a farce called 'The More the Merrier.' Opening night, unfortunately, I was standing too near the curtain when it went up. It caught my belt in the rear, and I went right up with it. There I hung at the top of the stage framework, hollering for help. They lowered the curtain and started all over again — but my debut proved to be my farewell performance at the same time!"

CAN snoring be cured? Snoring is usually a cause of distress to the snorer, the "snoree" and sometimes to the neighbors. The social aspects of snoring are almost always worse than are the medical and physical effects of the condition. There are some anatomical conditions that are known to be responsible for snoring. Large adenoids in children, polyps of the nose and allergies that block the nose can be responsible for snoring. There are other less likely reasons.

When an underlying cause is found it should, of course, be removed.

Unfortunately, many people have been driven by their anxiety about snoring into long and expensive treatment with gadgets and devices that are worthless and sometimes hazardous. Some have even undergone questionable surgery in an effort to find the elusive cure for snoring.

If, after a complete examination, no findings are present patients must simply accept this condition as a nuisance and pattern their sleeping habits around it.

Is erysipelas a dangerous condition? What causes it?

Erysipelas of the skin was once considered a very severe infection. It occurs on the face and legs and is characterized by an area of redness and swelling of the skin. The skin feels hot and is tender. The border of the red area has tiny offshoots which point in the direction in which the erysipelas is spreading.

Erysipelas is caused by a form of the streptococcus bacteria which enters the skin that has been broken or injured. Today erysipelas is readily controlled and cured by the antibiotics and the sulfa drugs.

Can high blood pressure be reduced by the rice diet? Is it still being used?

The past ten years have brought many scientific advances for the reduction of high blood pressure. Newly developed drugs have been extremely successful in regulating most forms of high blood pressure.

Before these drugs were discovered, the rice diet was used successfully in many cases. The purpose of the rice diet was to reduce cholesterol in the blood and salt in the body tissues. With the rice diet came a marked reduction in weight so important for the control of high blood pressure.

The gratifying results with drugs has reduced the need for the rice diet as the only means of control of high blood pressure.

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

When Sylvia first joined the club, she barely knew a spade from a hole in the ground. She thought a coup was something the birds did, a pass was something the boys made at girls, and a double was something you saw in the mirror.

However, this didn't stop Sylvia from playing in the expert game, where she was, of course, completely outclassed. Sylvia was a hard fighter by nature, and she was fearless and unabashed besides. Her abysmal ignorance of the niceties of the game was at times shocking and inevitably brought on countless disasters, but this very ignorance would occasionally produce an outstanding triumph that would be talked about by the membership at large for weeks on end.

Take this hand which occurred shortly after Sylvia learned to finesse. This newly found device was a revelation to her, and she relished each finesse she took with an unholiness that would scare her quaking partners to death.

West's opening lead was a club. Sylvia took the queen with the ace and promptly led a trump and finessed the jack! When this extraordinary finesse succeeded, Sylvia's expression of joy was really something to behold. She later lost a heart, a diamond and a club, but she made four spades.

East-West felt frustrated by the unaccustomed finesse — especially since it cost them the rubber. But subsequent analysis revealed that Sylvia's play was undoubtedly correct and that it was the only way to assure the contract.

Suppose the finesse had lost to the singleton or doubleton queen. In that case the contract would still have been safe regardless of what the defense did next.

West could cash a club and shift next to a diamond, but declarer would then play a high trump, lead a heart to the queen and ace, and later discard a diamond on the king of hearts, using the six of spades as an entry to dummy.

BORN TODAY

Born in Whitingham, Vermont, in 1801, Brigham Young was converted to the Mormon faith in 1832 by a brother of its founder, Joseph Smith, and spent the rest of his life in its service.

As an elder, he spent the years 1832-33 in Kirtland, Ohio, and in Canada; was appointed an apostle in 1835; and, on the death of Smith in 1844, became president of the sect known as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

When the Mormons were persecuted and driven from Nauvoo, Ill., Young led them on a migration across the plains to Utah, where they settled on the shore of the Great Salt Lake in 1847, founding Salt Lake City.

From 1850 to 1857, Young was governor of the Utah Territory. Practical and far-seeing, he encouraged agriculture and manufacturing, made roads and bridges, and carried out a contract for 100 miles of the Union Pacific Railroad.

In accordance with Mormon belief, Young practiced and defended polygamy. At his death he had seventeen wives and more than 50 children.

Others born this day include Post Laureate John Masfield, conductor Werner Janssen, playwright John Van Bruton, actress Joan Caulfield, singer Pat Boone, actor Andy Griffith.

MARKET ADVISORY COMMITTEE APPOINTED

To Aid On Relocation Problem

Plan To Meet With Leaders Of Fruit Industry

Six well known twin cities area men have been named to confer with market relocation groups and advise the City of Benton Harbor on what it can do to aid relocation of the soon-to-be demolished Benton Harbor fruit market.

In announcing the six appointments at a Benton Harbor city commission meeting last night, Mayor Wilbert Smith said the men will act as an "advisory" committee to the city commission and market board.

The advisory group will meet with leaders of a fruit industry committee that is spearheading market relocation this week and report to the city commission next Monday night.

The fruit market, operating on a 17-acre site in downtown Benton Harbor since 1930, is scheduled for demolition under a city urban renewal plan sometime after the end of the 1966 trading season.

City commissioners will hear the advisory group's recommendations in a "market report night" next Monday in commission chambers.

MAYOR NAMES SIX

The men Mayor Smith said he asked Tuesday to advise the city are:

State Sen. Charles Zollar (R-Benton township); Kenneth Keefe, president of Farmers & Merchants National Bank of Benton Harbor; Nelson "Bert" Lindstedt, managing editor of The News-Palladium and the Herald-Press; H. Edward Tolzke, a Benton Harbor real estate man; Ralph Petrie, consulting engineer of R.W. Petrie & Associates, Inc., of Benton Harbor; and Leon Gideon, president of Barentsen Candy Company of Benton Harbor and former Benton Harbor mayor and city commissioner.

Mayor Smith said he feels certain the advisory group will come up with answers on what the city can do to help market relocation.

INTERESTED CITIZENS

The men were interested in relocation before they were asked to serve as advisers, Smith said.

The city several years ago purchased a 23-acre tract as a possible market relocation site near the Benton Harbor airport.

A fruit industry group headed by officials of the Berrien County Farm Bureau tackled market relocation problems shortly after the city commission decided in a split 5-4 vote April 25 not to operate the market after the 1966 season.

Mayor Smith told commissioners he feels the city is "morally obligated" to assist any groups wishing to build a new market.

"I think we have a moral obligation to assist anyone who wants to go into the market business," he replied to Commissioner Ralph Lhotka's comment that the commission needn't worry about whether a market continues.

Smith's announcement of the advisory group came only moments after Watervliet Grower Reinhold Zepik told the commission it is "high time" relocation begins "because after January the snow starts flying."

OTHER BUSINESS

In other matters, the commission heard its first complaint by a citizen on the amount offered for his property under terms of the city urban renewal program.

Timothy Sanders said the $10,900 offered for homes he owns on property at 630 and 624 Eighth street is not enough, in his opinion. Sanders, who lives at 630 Eighth street, indicated he should have been offered at least $15,000, since that is the amount he will have to pay to relocate. He said he has found a home for $15,000, adding that he will lose rental income now derived from the house at 624 Eighth street.

No action was taken, but the commission asked Sanders to meet with Urban Renewal Director Leslie Cripps in an effort to resolve the matter. Mayor Smith said this was the first such complaint brought to the commission.

OFFER TO SELL LAND

City Manager Don C. Stewart, meanwhile, reported four new offers to sell land to the city under the renewal program. Commissioners were told the offers involve property at 285 Brunson avenue and 452 Colfax avenue, $10,000 each, at 264

PUBLIC MEETING JUNE 9

St. Joseph School Board Candidates To Tell Views

The seven candidates running for three positions on the St. Joseph board of education are scheduled to appear at a "Meet Your Candidate" session 8 p.m. on Thursday, June 9 in St. Joseph high school cafeteria.

The program is being sponsored by the Twin City League of Women Voters. Mrs. Eystein Einsel, president, announced. All of the candidates have been contacted by phone. Mrs. Ernest said, and a formal letter of invitation has been sent. None have said they will not be there, she said.

FIELD OF CANDIDATES

The candidates in the order they filed nominating petitions are:

Four-year term (two to be elected) — Ray M. Dumke, incumbent, an accountant, of 900 Greenwood; Harold J. Elias, supervisor of the industrial arts department of Clark Equipment Co., Construction Machinery division of 1302 Tucker drive; James E. Challenger, president of two LaPorte, Ind., firms, of 1107 Highland avenue; and James K. Mason, treasurer of Adams Sheet Metal Works, Ind., of 2304 West Mount Curve, all of St. Joseph.

Two-year term (one to be elected) — Arthur Franzen, Whirlpool executive, of 1801 Niles avenue; Louis J. Schroeder, vice president, Schroeder Buick, Benton Harbor, of 401 Winwood; and Douglas Burr, pattern maker, Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co., Inc., route 2, Niles avenue, all of St. Joseph.

St. Joseph has not had so many school board candidates running at the same time in years. The League of Women Voters decided that a "Meet Your Candidate" night would help to introduce the seven men.

MODERATOR

Mrs. Robert Zilly, who is a past president of the Twin City league, but not a resident of the St. Joseph school district, will serve as moderator. Mrs. Sylvester Fassnacht will be timer. Each candidate will have 10 minutes to introduce himself and explain his platform.

Then written questions can be submitted, addressed to specific candidates. The other candidates can comment on the question if they wish, Mrs. Einsel said.

NEW 'POST OFFICE': Complete postal service is available at the new Hilltop Foods supermarket at Washington avenue and Hilltop road in south St. Joseph. High street, $9,000 and at 107 Bond street, $4,000.

A proposal by Commissioner Rex Sheeley to hire two special police officers to patrol city parks during the summer months was postponed until next week.

Benton Harbor Police Chief Merle McCarroll last week issued a department memorandum citing mounting instances of misuse of parks. He asked regular officers to provide a closer check on city parks in the light of such offenses as beer drinking and profane language.

PARK PROBLEM

Three residents of the Broadway park area urged the commission to make that park primarily a playground for children 12 and under.

Voicing their opinions were Mrs. Dorothy McLeod, 958 Broadway, Mrs. Don Kelly, 972 Pavone, and Mrs. Dann Creighton, 951 Pavone. They criticized use of the park for baseball, especially hardball, and also cited speeding traffic in the area. The citizens felt older children playing baseball could use Union park.

Smith asked the commission's park committee to study conditions at Broadway park and report back next week. Commissioner Sheeley extended his remarks beyond park patrol officers to include rising bicycle thefts, which he said totaled 51 in the city during May.

VARIOUS ACTIONS

The commission also: —Approved a two-point resolution regarding cost estimates of $5,500 to pave an alley from Hull avenue to Winans street between Highland and Thresher avenues, and a public hearing on possible objections to the paving plan.

—Approved a cemetery board recommendation that an additional 10 feet of land be sold to A.L. Halosky who purchased property near Crystal Springs cemetery for relocation of the St. Joseph Monument Works. The cost of the extra strip was pegged at $500.

—Extended its sympathy to the family of the Rev. W.G. Wilson, who died May 25 at the age of 78. The Rev. Mr. Wilson served 22 years as pastor of the Second Baptist church, Benton Harbor. Mayor Smith recommended the resolution. Commissioner F. Joseph Flaugh termed the Rev. Mr. Wilson a great and courageous man, closely associated with the city.

—Accepted a letter from Robert Russ, a partner in Twin City Printers, who commended firemen for their efforts in saving much of his equipment

New Suit Protests Power Line

Second Complaint In St. Joe Twp. Over I&M Plans

Seven individual St. Joseph township families have filed suit to keep a proposed Indiana & Michigan Electric company power line off their Hillview Manor subdivision property.

The suit is the second in connection with the power line. St. Joseph Township Supervisor Orval Benson filed a suit May 23 in behalf of the township, and obtained a temporary restraining order halting construction of the line.

The new suit asks that the line be kept off the seven individual parcels of property permanently. Property owners contend the company does not have sufficient right-of-way for a power line of the size allegedly proposed by the company, and the line would be a hazard to area residents.

SAFETY DOUBTED

Plaintiffs in the action are Siegfried and Lily Zielke, Aman V. and Shirley Khan, Richard and Janet Hall, Jack and Mildred Hart, Joe and Dorothy Passarello, Herbert and Hella Lohrke, and Lyle and Marian Miller.

The complaint contends the company is planning a major power line over an easement of not over 12 feet wide, despite the fact that company representatives allegedly told the property owners the company usually tried to get at least a 35-foot easement as a safety requirement.

The proposed line would allegedly carry either 69,000 or 345,000 volts of power from Bridgman to the Hickory Creek substation in St. Joseph township.

POT SAME

Atty. F.A. Jones, counsel for the plaintiffs, said the new suit differs from the one filed last week in that it seeks to protect rights of the individual plaintiffs. The previous suit was primarily to protect the township's right to regulate construction of a line, he said.

Tuesday's suit asks that construction of the line be permanently halted and that I & M be required to remove all structures on the property that are designed to handle major power transmission lines. Thus far one pole has been put up for the proposed line, Jones said.

Dems Will Pick Slate

All Democrats in Benton township have been invited by Township Democrat Chairman Ed O'Brien to a meeting at 7:30 Thursday night, to help select a full slate of candidates for township offices in the coming election.

The meeting is slated in the Fairplain Plaza office below Goldblatts. O'Brien said the purpose of the meeting is to insure that there will be candidates for all of the offices. The deadline for nominating petitions to be filed is June 14 at 4 p.m.

Warmer Readings Forecast

Cold Snap Delays Arrival Of Berries

Area growers greeted the first of June by fighting frost for the fourth night in a row.

Irrigators sprayed water across strawberry plots and oil-filled smudge pots blazed in grape vineyards as growers countered low temperatures down to an unofficial 25 degrees at the ground level.

Official readings taken at the five-foot level, usually several degrees warmer than on the ground, went as low as 30 degrees.

A warming trend has nullified chances of frost in the next several night, according to the weather bureau. Lows forecast for tonight range from 38 to 44 degrees.

The Benton Harbor market is still awaiting the first strawberry crate of the season, which normally arrives the third or fourth week in May. This season's first crate is expected sometime between Thursday and early next week.

USE FIRE, WATER

Growers have been fighting frost with fire and water each night since Saturday.

Some of the low readings last night at the five-foot level were: Grand Junction, 30; Bangor and Waterford, 31; Riverside, Eau Claire, and Glendora, 32.

The burglars had also removed the linen from the beds and closets. Dr. Dushkin also reported the loss of miscellaneous clothing, three inflatable rubber rafts, a clock and two boys' bicycles.

VATICAN CONSISTORY Detroit, Chicago May Get Cardinals

By JAMES M. LONG

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Reports circulated in the Vatican today that Pope Paul VI would ask the Sacred College this month to help him select new cardinals for elevation this fall in an unusual consistory outside Vatican City.

The new cardinals almost certainly would increase the Sacred College well above the all-time record of 103.

Prominently mentioned here as a possible new American cardinal is Archbishop John Patrick Cody, who was named to the Chicago Diocese after the death of Albert Cardinal Meyer.

Others often mentioned include Archbishops Leo Binz of St. Paul, Minn.; John F. Dearden of Detroit; John J. Krill of Philadelphia; Paul J. Hallinan of Atlanta; and Joseph T. McGucken of San Francisco.

POPE'S PLANS According to the reports in the Vatican, Pope Paul plans to submit to his present 98 cardinals a list of his proposed nominees for elevation to the purple and ask the cardinals themselves for their opinion or suggestions. It was said he probably would do so sometime this month, perhaps June 29.

Such an action would go back to the customs of the church in medieval days when Popes consulted with their cardinals on new nominees.

According to these reports

Report Theft Of Motor In Benton

Benton township police received reports of two thefts Tuesday, one involving extension cords and the other an outboard motor.

John Hampton, 134 Birdie avenue, reported the theft of an 8.5 horsepower Champion outboard from a shed behind his house. Emil Krause, 333 Margaret avenue, reported the theft and later recovery of two 50-foot extension cords from a machine shop near his home.

Police arrested a township man, identified as Henry Bridgeman, 39, route 2, Box 95, on a charge of possessing an unregistered gun Monday night after Bridgeman's landlady, Ester Lee, complained to police that Bridgeman had attacked him with a switchblade knife.

Sgt. Paul Farris and Officer Jack Hall said they were unable to find a knife, but did find an unregistered revolver while searching Bridgeman's apartment with his permission. He was booked at the county jail.

there would be no announcement, at the time, of the names on the Pope's list. The list might be revised after the cardinals have made their views known to the Pope.

NEW SITE? The consistory, according to this report, would not be called until autumn, and then it might be held for the first time in more than six centuries at the ancient Lateran Palace in Rome, nearly two miles outside Vatican walls.

The reason for this would be that when Pope Paul returns from his usual summer stay at Castel Gandolfo, in the Alban Hills outside Rome, he would take up temporary residence in the Lateran. Popes lived there from the 4th to the start of the 14th century.

Pope Paul has been reported planning to stay there while workmen go ahead with large-scale renovation and repair of the 15th century Apostolic Palace in Vatican City.

Arrest B.H. Man In Theft Of Copper

Benton Harbor police last night arrested a Michigan Standard Alloys, Inc., employee in connection with a complaint that copper tubing valued at $250 had been stolen from the firm.

Det. Harry Lenardson said the arrest followed a report from an official of Surplus Trading, 608 Paw Paw avenue, who said he had purchased copper tubing and had suspected it may have been stolen. The official provided a description of the seller's car, which was spotted by Lenardson on Highland avenue.

Booked on a charge of grand larceny was Joe Nathan Rittman, 22, of 139 Frederick street, Benton township, a furnace operator with the industrial plant.

Police yesterday also investigated the reported theft of a transistor radio and food from the home of Otis Joseph, 151 North Winans street.

VISITS RELATIVES THREE OAKS — Leo Weed, an official with the Clark Gum Co. in Antwerp, Belgium, visited his mother and step father, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Rembarger, this weekend. Weed is presently in this country on business for the company. Joining the Rembargers and Weed for a family gathering were the latter's sisters, Mrs. Edward Smith, Buchanan, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kuhl, Gallien.

Budget Busting Bill Is Ready

Reflects House Feud With Sec. McNamara

By WILBUR MARTIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — With a feud between Congress and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as a backdrop, the House starts action today on a budget-busting $17.8-billion military authorization bill for research and equipment.

Four hours of debate were to precede a final vote on the bill, which exceeds the administration request by $931 million.

When it added the funds the administration didn't want, the House Armed Services Committee sharply criticized McNamara and proclaimed a "new era," saying Congress must share in decision making on military matters.

ROLE OF CONGRESS "No longer must Congress be a who-body, something halfway between a nobody and a somebody," Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., said in the committee's unanimous report.

The House's authorization figure is $600 million higher than that approved by the Senate. Any differences will have to be settled in a conference.

There is no assurance the Defense Department will spend any extra money, if it is voted, although the House bill includes language Rivers says will make this mandatory.

POINTS OF DISPUTE The committee and McNamara are at odds over spending in three areas: nuclear-powered surface ships for the Navy, a new, manned bomber, and an antimissile missile system.

The bill before the House includes funds for two atomic-powered frigates for the Navy, research on the manned bomber and the missile system. McNamara refused last year to spend money voted for a nuclear frigate. He also has opposed increased funding for the new missile system and the manned bomber.

The bill includes about $10.5 billion for procurement and about $7.2 billion for research and development.

Another section authorizes a 3.2 per cent pay increase for uniformed military personnel. The administration did not oppose this $356 million item.

and the missile system.

Bainbridge Man Injured

Car Leaves Road; Theft Reported

Reports of a minor personal injury accident, theft of a tape recorder and a missing husband were received by Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Fred MacIn, 44, of the William Isenbrenner farm, Danneff road, Bainbridge township, suffered minor scrapes when his car went off M-140 at Napier avenue and crashed over three guard posts Monday. He was charged with speeding and failure to have his vehicle under control. An Eau Claire policeman told Clp. Irvin Hudak he had followed MacIn's car at about 90 miles per hour just prior to the accident.

Willard Faulkner, Chicago, told deputies this morning someone entered his unlocked cottage off Riverside road, Hagar township, and took an experimental tape recorder he had been working on.

Bessie Burgess, Berrien Springs, told deputies yesterday her husband, Luther Burgess, left home three weeks ago and hasn't returned. He is described as white, 55 years old, 6 foot 2, 170 pounds, with brown hair and blue eyes. He may be driving a blue two-door 1958 Chevrolet, she said.
